Digital Library

Digital libraries are changing the concept of the librarian, their collection and services. Various new terms as digital libraries, digital librarian, libraries without walls, virtual libraries, hybrid libraries etc. have emerged to describe the libraries of digital era. The aim of the library and information science profession has always been to provide the users the access to the required information at right time. Dr. S. R. Ranganathan- The father of library and information science in India stated that, "Librarianship is a noble profession. A librarian derives his joy by seeing the dawn of joy in the face of readers, helped by him to find the right book at the right time." To accomplish this goal, in the present digital library era, it is essential that academic library professionals are well trained and possess requisite knowledge and skills in this respect. We are entering the digital library and librarians have to use the changing technology to provide the best access and service to their users. Academic library professionals of digital era should have the knowledge of information resources like e-books, e-papers, knowledge about the internet, online libraries and should have excellent communication skills, should constantly update personal knowledge base on keeping in touch with the latest development.

The role of the academic library professionals is totally changed in this digital environment from librarian to information manager / knowledge manager. To satisfy the information need to user at maximum extent by library source or by out sourcing is the main goal of the library. In the digital era, to survive and become successful for an academic librarian, timely updating of skills and techniques are necessary. The role of the academic librarian in the digital era is to promote access to appropriate and accurate information to serve the needs of users. This has been the librarian's mission for generations. However, the digital era has made this mission much more challenging and complex. It has also demanded that the academic librarians and library support staff bring or develop new technical skills to promote information access. The technology revolution has brought many changes to the way for the academic librarians and library staff to manage their day and provide the information to users.

An E Resources means electronic resources, which are available in electronic digital form the e resources are very useful in academic libraries. The most important part related to e resources the quality of library collection during the present days the quality has direct link with the types of library collection depends upon the requirement of the user. An e database is an organized collection of large information, of a particular subject of various subject areas.
